Old Tree of Historic Interest.

Mr. Sidney Foscock, J. F., has just disposed of his residence, Charlton Court, Shepperton-on-Thames, Middlesex, England, in the kitchen garden of which is a very old mulberry tree bearing a tablet with the following inscription: "During the reign of Charles II. a fox was hunted from Windsor park and took refuge in this tree, where it was killed. The king, who was present at the kill, expressed a wish that the tree should be preserved to commemorate the longest run on record."

Seized by an Eagle.

A huge eagle swooped down on the home of a Westport, Conn., man a few days ago and seized Anna, his two-year-old daughter, in its talons and attempted to fly away with her. The screams of the child brought the father to the yard. The bird then dropped the little one, and the father seized her and ran into the house. The little girl's clothes were torn by the bird's talons, but she was not even scratched.

Original Woman Suffragist.

A modern historian makes the claim that Congru Hroff, the mighty Viking, who afterward became the first duke of Normandy and the progenitor of William the Conqueror, was the original woman suffragist, and that it was this valiant Normandy who granted the first charter for women's rights ten centuries ago.

Best Disinfectant.

Sunshine is the best possible disinfectant. The rays of the sun penetrate and disintegrate all organic substances. Let it flood the rooms which are occupied whenever it is possible. Lay the bedding in its direct rays for an hour every bright morning. Dark corners that have a stuffy smell are dangerous to the health of the household.
